

SUPPLE SENIOR CARE — WHERE COMPASSION MEETS TECHNOLOGY

At Supple Senior Care, we believe that real care begins with heart, and technology helps us bring that care closer to home. Using modern, privacy-safe tools, we make it easy for families to stay connected and confident.

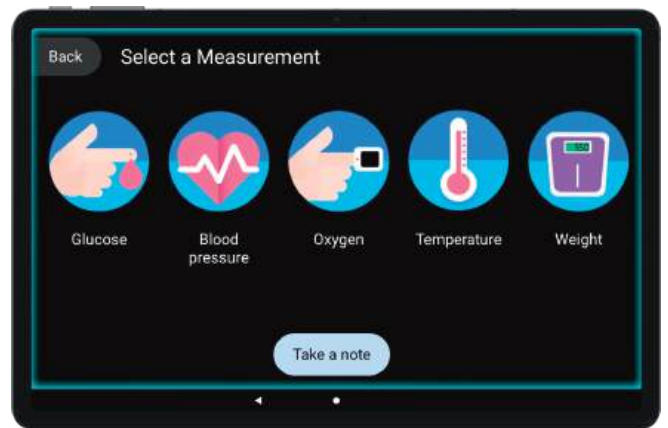

Tracks health trends

Helps families monitor ongoing health trends across key vital signs, including blood pressure, glucose levels, weight, and blood oxygen saturation. Through the Notes feature, caregivers can also log and track important daily patterns, such as fall frequency or any other health-related observations, especially valuable for seniors with fall-risk conditions.

For example, this chart shows the client's blood pressure trend over the past two months. For a client's doctor this can be an important source of insight to help keep the client healthier and support longevity. This is especially important for clients with fragile health, those living with chronic conditions, or recovering after a hospital stay.

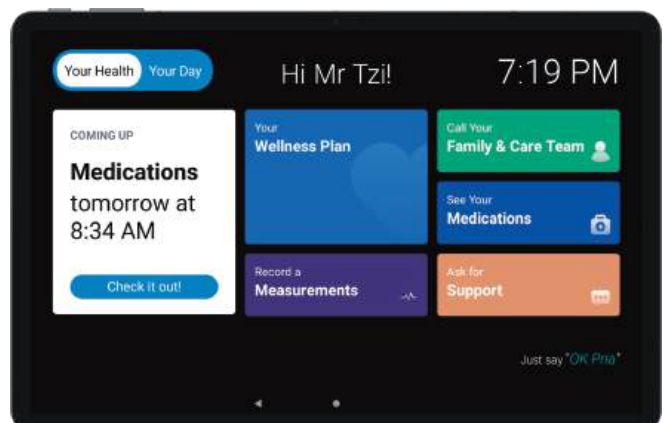

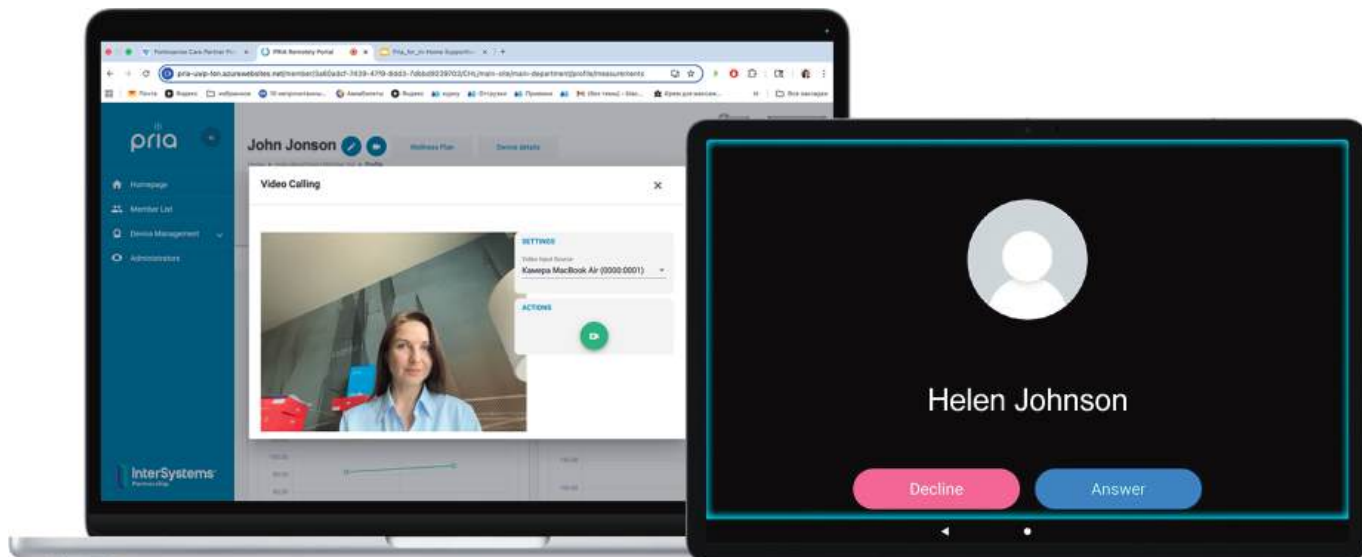

Pria serves as a secure communication hub connecting clients, families, and care teams. It seamlessly gathers health and behavioral data, generates smart reports, and consolidates information for predictive analysis, helping to maintain the client's wellbeing and prevent potential health crises before they occur.

The Pria tablet easily connects via Bluetooth to iHealth devices, allowing seamless wireless collection of health data. Information can also be entered manually when needed.

We've also added a "Notes" field that allows caregivers to track additional information such as diet, fall events, or other health observations.

Video calls, staying connected and cared for

Video calls are an essential way for clients to stay in touch with their loved ones and care teams, helping them feel supported, seen, and cared for every day.

Calls can be made from the agency portal or the family/caregiver mobile app directly to the client's Pria tablet. This seamless connection not only brings people closer but also enables caregivers and coordinators to check in, gather valuable feedback, and respond quickly if any health or safety concerns arise.

And it's simple for the client to answer right on the big screen!

This makes it possible to provide 24/7 video call support and care, ensuring peace of mind for both clients and their families.

Pria is easy to use

You simply send the list of prescribed medications, scheduled doctor or hospital visits, and required vital measurements, and the Pria Contact Center takes care of entering everything into the system for you. Installation is simple, all that's needed is Wi-Fi. The Pria tablet is placed on a convenient stand with continuous charging, ready to support care every day.
